

MANUAL HANDLING ASSESSMENTS

Is your organisation complying with the occupational health and safety legislation concerning manual handling in the work place?

Have you recently assessed your work place to determine whether there are any tasks that involve hazardous manual handling?

ERGOSH consultants are able to conduct Manual Handling Assessments at your work place. The consultant will identify tasks in your workplace that involve hazardous manual handling, assess the risk associated with these tasks and provide detailed recommendations to remedy any identified deficiencies.

If required ERGOSH can also provide training to inform and instruct employees on manual handling obligations in order for those personnel to be able to conduct effective Manual Handling Assessments in the future.
